

Infostream goes with the flow

Infostream, a newly formed subsidiary of Archive Solutions, is joining the ProcessFlows Channel Partner Programme.

The company will focus on the delivery of innovative electronic document management and process management solutions designed to streamline efficiency and save cost.

Rob Davis, Managing Director of this new venture, has over twenty years experience in the document management industry. Rob said; “Archive Solutions have always been recognised as an efficient and friendly document archiving partner by local authorities, the NHS and legal and financial services firms throughout the UK. Last year, Archive Solutions partnered with ProcessFlows to enable them to supply complimentary software, digital scanning/storage solutions and helpdesk support for their customers. Their success demonstrated huge market potential for business expansion in this area – hence Infostream.”

Rob believes the timing is good. The Paperless Office (TPO) and Green movements continue to promote ‘paper-light’ options and documents are increasingly being converted into electronic versions and stored in a secure, digital filing cabinet, rather than a locked basement. Intense paper processes are being replaced with automated, electronic alternatives that enable entire core business activities, such as accounts payable, to be carried out from the desktop.

“At a time when businesses need to save costs, our solutions are particularly relevant” said Rob.

Franca Cognata, Channel Partner Manager at ProcessFlows said; “As part of our Channel Partner Programme, Infostream has the back-up of full services and support from our experienced client services team, so there is no need for them to invest time in training staff to support our technology. They can ‘hit the deck running’ and continue to help customers deal with mountains of paper they can’t destroy.”
